Chicago Authorities Seek Custody of New York Attorney

(By Associated Press)

Bizarre slayings, poison killings, kidnaping, racketeering, drugging of race horses and marketing of babies were some of the crimes that occupied police of the nation Saturday in their unrelenting fight against lawbreakers.

The crime wave spread to Cleveland, Ohio, where James Gray, promidead from a potion of strong sorrosive poison. He was stabbed twice in the back and slashed across the back of the neck. By his side lay a huge huntknife, a detective novel and horned rimmed glasses.

In Tulsa, Okla., officials of the state charities and corrections department, were startled to find evidence indicating three Tulsa physicians were conducting a "baby market"—selling infants to cover hospitalization costs of young mothers. Prices of babies to foster parents ranged from $70 to $100, officials said. Meanwhile, in Chicago, Ill., author-

WAS KU KLUX LEADER

Morehouse Citizen Served in Confederate Army and as Mayor

Captain John Killian Skipwith, considered one of the most colorful figures Louisiana has ever produced died here early yesterday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs Louis Cosper. He was 85 years old. Born at Clinton, East Feliciana parish, on January 24, 1848, Captain Skipwith joined the Confederate army at the age of 13, serving as a messenger. He saw some of the major battles of the War between the States and at one time was held prisoner at New Orleans by federal forces. He made his escape when a friend smuggled him a rope which he used in getting away, and later rejoined his regiment.

He was under the command of General Nathan B. Forrest when the latter surrendered to the northern

At the age of 21 he married Miss Sarah Victoria Gayle, also of Clinton, After his marriage he served as clerk of court in East Feliciana and later became interested in a number of plantations and oil mill companies. Among the latter were family to Bastrop, where he served as manager of the Bastrop Cotton Mill company. Becoming interested in Bastrop's civic affairs, he was elected mayor and served two terms. organized in Louisiana Captain Skipwith was named head of the organ-ization in Morehouse parish. He received nation-wide attention in 1922-23 when Klan affairs in Morehouse reached a high pitch of excitement over the disappearance of two men Watt Daniels and Thomas F. Rich ards. The two men, together with Daniels' father and "Tot" Davenport, were kidnaped by a hooded band after a baseball game and were never seen alive again in this section. The elder Daniels and Davenport were released by their captors.

After a wide investigation had been conducted of conditions in Morehouse parish by state and federal authorities, two bodies were dynamited from the bottom of a lake near Mer Rouge. It was declared that they were those of Watt Daniels and Rich-blamed for the alleged slayings, and an open court hearing was held at Bastrop to investigate the affair. State troops, which had been sent

All of these items must be added to the state's tax hill. If to the state tax figures tabulated above, the federal tax of 1½ cents per gallon of gasoline is added, the gasoline content of a barrel of 39 gravity oil pays a total tax of 50.94185, and the discrepancy between the taxing authorities on one side and the royalty owner and producer on the other becomes greater. The royalty owner gets 5½ cents, the producer S63; cents and the taxing power $1.63. Ed Jackson, who was Indiana's chief executive from 1924 to 1928, tolay told at least a part of the story by which he hopes to break two alleged wills left by Miss Merrill, a wealthy recluse.

Miss Merrill was found murdered about a year ago and the crime was traced to a negro who later was killed while resisting arrest. Suit was filed Friday in Natchez contesting the wills, of the woman in which her estate was bequeathed to Duncan G. Minor, lifelong friend.

Mrs. Grist, who has lived all her life in Greenfield, a county seat just east of Indianapolis, claims to be the daughter of Miss Merrill.

Reaching for a thick packet of newspaper clippings, photographs, court records and letters, Jackson explained that "we do not know who Mrs. Grist's father was, but of course court procedure does not require that we establish identity of the father, "It seems," he said, "that J. H. Hall, now dead, who lived in Philadelphia, a small village near Greenfield, had considerable business in Mississippi in the early part of this century, and became acquainted with Miss Merrill, "In 1902 Miss Merrill came to Indianapolis, where a child was born, When the baby, who we claim is now Mrs. Grist, was three days old, another friend of Miss Merril took it to the Hall home, where she lived until 1923. Miss Merrill returned to her home in Natchez several weeks after the birth but saw her daughter several times in succeeding years-the last time being in 1923, when the girl was married." Japan Has No Apologies For Its Chinese Policy, War Minister Declares

EDITOR'S NOTE: To the political philosophy of the "new" Japan born out of the Manchurian and north China campaigns there has been given, in the recent comparative caim, the test of deliberative thought by her statesmen.

From the events of the past year, during which Japan boldly announced a duty incumbent upon her to risk world censure in adjusting long standing difficulties with China, Lt. Gen. Sadao Araki, minister of war, emerged as the most powerful individual in Japan. Membership in the cabinet only feebly portrays the power of his position. The two military portfolios—war and navy—are superior to premiers and cabinets because their authority is derived straight from the emperor.

Both of these military figures stood out spectacularly in events at Shapshai, but with the opening of the north China campaign the army took the spottight. From that moment Gen, Araki has been pictured as a world character comparable in national power with the mightiest figures of modern history.

Recently a business matter called Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, to Japan. He visited General Araki at the war office where he was introduced by Mr. Yukichi Twanaga, director of Shumbun Reino Sha, the Japanese news agency, which is fashioned after the Associated Press, Gen. Araki's cordiality and frank replies to questions, not designed for a formal interview, led to consent for their publication as an answer to a general American perplexity about Japanese policies respective to China.

The Associated Press has just received the resuits of this interview in two articles of the war minister's authorship, and presents them in two parts. wo articles of the war minister's authorship, and presents them in two parts.

From an opening statement, strongly voicing Japanese defiance of world critics, which forms the first article, the war minister passes smoothly into a chapter which will be published later. This is a very frank discussion of Japan's disappointment with her experience in surrendering old traditions and venturing into the realm of western influence. Gen, Arakl, as spokesman for his people, says Japan has come to rue that trial and now looks eagerly to a return to something approaching the code of the Samural, the ancient military caste.

Gen Arakl was appointed as minister You'll Be Suited With Gen Araki was appointed as minister of war in December, 1931, in the cabinet of Suyoshi Inukai, who was later assussinated. He was renamed to the war post in the cabinet of Admiral Viscount Makoto Saito, the present head of the cabinet.

Following is the first of two striking statements:

By Lt. Gen. Sadao Araki (Minister of War of Japan)

The Japanese empire has no apologies to offer the world for what critics abroad have considered the dras tic and abrupt action her armies have taken in Manchuria and more recently in north China. Such criticism clearly indicates either ignorance of or unwillingness to understand the history of the past generation, especially with reference to Japan's relations with China and with the rest of the world.

It is perhaps just as well that Japan's action has impressed the occident as strong, direct and perhaps more drastic than circumstances war ranted, for in this way it may lead to study and understanding of the events which have led to Japan's present situation, in which she appears to some as isolated from and defiant of the main currents of world

Japan, not of her own free will, was drawn into the international scheme in the middle of the last century, and a generation ago began her education in international dealings in the hard school conducted by the great European empires. The influence of Napoleon was still dominant; diplomacy was secret, realistic, cynical, selfish. The lessons of this school we learned to our cost as we strove to make a-place for ourselves in the socety of nations.

Alike in the period of realistic et diplomacy, and in the of so-called open diplom-which succeeded it after the great war, with its lip-service to peace and its accumulation of pacts and peace machinery, we learned from bitter experience that reliance on our own strength, foresight, tenacity and courage was the only safe method for the defense of our independence, our vital interests and our rights.

For a generation Japan tried to follow a policy of cooperation with the western world in its search for peace and stability, subscribed to its pacts, joined its organization. All this helped us in none of our real problems. International accords, international combinations have helped Japan in none have been invoked against her. Japan was provoked into war with China in 1894 and while an astounded world looked on we defeated the de-cadent empire. China then ceded us the Liaotung peninsula. In 1896 three great European empires-Russia, Germany and France—compelled us by threats to relinquish this prize. Within the next three years Russia had occupied that same peninsula by virtue of treaties with China which gave the czar also the right to build railways across Manchuria and which bound Russia and China in alliance against Japan; Germany had occupied Tsingtau, Great Britain Weihai-wei and France Kwangchowwan. For years we have sought only peace and friendship with America. Nearly two decades of controversy. beginning with the anti-Japanese land and schools agitations in California, reached its climax in 1924 when the American government brusquely obits gentleman's agreement oranding them as racially inferior. ern world? We have no doubts of the full justification of the vigorous branding them as racially inferior. the allies in the great war. At the peace conference the great powers of Europe and America refused recognition of our racial equality.

For two decades we fulfilled loyally all the responsibilities of our alliance with Great Britain. In 1922 the British empire, desiring the favor of the United States, then grown to unprecedented wealth and power, summarily abrogated the alliance. Today our people are practically barred from migrating to the vast semi-filled spaces of the British dominions, Canada and Australia. More recently there has our goods from the British empire.
The troubles between Japan and acquired rights and interests. We Japanese brooked all kinds of obstruction, insults, even violence with utmost patience. In later years, however, China's tactics became more and more oppressive and obstructive until they could be tolerated no long-

What reason had we to hope in this crisis that redress could be obtained from the nations which had never helped us in our emergencies of the past? Still fresh in our memories were the incidents of Nikolaievsk (a port at the mouth of the Amur river n eastern Siberia, where in March, 1920, more than 600 Japanese soldiers and civilians, including women and 'partisans" or Reds), and of Nanking (where on March 24, 1927, Chinese Communist troops attacked the foreign residents, including Japanese killing and wounding many and vio lating women). Who came to our aid to revenge these injuries and insults? We learned from these and other essons that we must defend ourselves. In Manchuria in 1931, when events were moving unmistakably toward another crisis of this tragic nature, we were compelled to act in self-defense. What use at such a time to appeal with us and adopted an absolute ex-clusion of our people as immigrants, informed peace machinery of the westaction we took in that emergency.

> convinced of the wisdom and fundamental disinterestedness of our course. The Occident, I believe, will one day believe that our actions far more surely were calculated to promote peace and the welfare of all the peoples of the Orient than all the maneuvering of the so-called peace makers of Geneva and other Occidental capitals. If our action, stern and decisive as it had to be, shocked idealists and

In the long run the world will be pacifists, that could not be helped. In the long run the effect may be been a determined effort to bar even salutary. The vision of the Japanese army, firm in its own integrity, con-vinced of the righteousness of its mination of 20 years marked by China's unceasing efforts to interfere with and nullify Japan's logitimet.

The speedometer is a little thing, but can be a big source of wrong conclusions.

On a recent test, two cars of different makes, with speedometers set at O, were given each two gallons of gas, and driven the same road till they stopped. The top car went 7 miles farther down the road than the low car, yet the low car's speedometer showed that it had gone farther than the top car. Paper miles and road miles may be two quite different things.

It is easier to build a speedometer that will $\underline{\text{read}}$ 70 miles an hour than a car that will go 70 miles an hour.

A Detroit man who has a summer home in Northern Michigan, began several months ago to drive his first Ford V-8. He says:

"My watch tells me that I go up north in less time than I did before, but ${\tt my}$ Ford speedometer says that I go at slower speed, and the trip registers fewer miles. In my former car the speedometer speed was higher, my mileage greater on this trip, but with my Ford V-8 I go in less time and use less gas."

There is no mystery about that. His former mileage, speed and gas consumption were delusions. He figured by a speedometer that did not measure accurately, and was not meant to. All his costs—operations, repairs, upkeep were calculated on a wrong basis. A wrong speedometer misleads on all these

Some car manufacturers justify this practice. They say it is just as well for a driver to think he is going 70 miles an hour when he is going only 62. Well, let that pass as to speed; does it justify telling every driver that he is getting more mileage out of his car than he really is? A speedometer measures speed AND mileage: should it cheat on both?

Speeding up a clock cannot create more hours any more than speeding up a speed-meter can create more miles. An hour is sixty minutes long. A mile is 5280 feet long. Ford mileage and Ford speed are accurately measured --- they are there-you get them-no one gets more.

Anyone can buy speedometers and have them "fixed" any way he wants them. We deal with manufacturers who know our strict stand on accuracy and are glad to meet our specifications. The limit of variation in Ford speedometers, a limit that cannot be avoided in manufacture, is $2\frac{3}{4}$ at 70 miles.

We get our speed and mileage out of our engine and wheels, not out of our speedometer.

The Letter Killeth; The Spirit Is Life

Is morality a matter of education or a matter of understanding? Can you get morality out of a book, or, if not, where can you get it? Does education improve a nation's

Education unquestionably opens the way for moral advancement because education teaches men to think. The man who takes the time and the trouble to study life must unquestionably, unless he is some sort of a fool, see from the experiences of the world that adherence to a high moral code of living brings the richest returns in life. By this we do not mean to limit the scope of the term to that of chastity. Chastity, like the rest of the decencies, is included in morality.

There are men who are much harmed by education. The more they learn to use their minds, the more dangerous they are to themselves and others. There is the type of man who has an incomplete mind; he is half fool and half knave. He is sometimes very clever in his knavishness. To him crookedness is justificable. Because of that fact, he is half fool. Any man who has been taught to use his mind, who actually has a knowledge of life, yet who believes that crookedness is justificable is utterly foolish, no matter how smart he may appear.

The more you educate the man who is half fool and half crook, the more dangerous you make him, the more you equip him to prey on his fellows. Frequently you will find the half fool and the half crook one of the most active members of the church. Often he is affable, ingratiating, plausible. He is a convincing talker. He can explain only right. impressively, even if superficially, the principles of religion. He can elucidate at length on the fact that God is love. Yet that type of man can be without any sense of l moral responsibility; he is the more dangerous because he is likely to deceive persons with whom he comes in contact. Wearing the cloak of heaven, he is one of the most valued agents of the devil, for his identity is concealed.

The sanctimonious crook probably has many and varied reasons for assuming a cloak of religion. Merely the fact that he is educated does not help him to overcome an unmoral propensity. Rather, it has taught him to use his mental endowments for his selfish advantage. He may be a church member because he is an habitual "joiner": he may appreciate the air of respectability that his church connection gives him; he may realize that to be outwardly religious is "good business."

Anyhow mere education on the subject of good behavior does not necessarily produce good behavior; which is another way of saying that the letter of the law isn't worth a hoot without the spirit. And that's the essence of the whole matter. If the spirit does not enter into a man then he won't do. No matter what else enters into himno matter what knowledge—he is merely an intellectual animal; and the more he knows the worse off he is and the worse off those with whom he comes in contact.

Education is dangerous for some sorts of persons, notably the half crook, half fool kind, the kind created with a screw missing, the moral screw, the spiritual screw, the screw that completes the contact with the Infinite. Sometimes a man with such a screw lacking can acquire such an accessory. It has been done, but it cannot be done through mere intellectual knowledge. It comes from something deeper, more profound than is afforded in natural sources. It is supernatural.

Education makes a man think, but if it fails to make him think right, then heaven help him and us!

WHY CRIME GROWS

Capture the other day in Iowa of the bandit "Buck' Barrow, who with his brother had spread terror through the Middle West, brings forcefully to mind the softhcartedness of officials in dealing with criminals.

Both of the Barrows had served prison terms, and "Buck" only last year was pardoned by Governor "Ma" Ferguson of Texas. Crimes charged against the two since the release of "Buck" include robbery, kidnaping and murder. The pair armed themselves with weapons obtained from a national guard armory in Oklahoma. They never hesitated to shoot it out when cornered by officers or resisted by their intended victims.

"Buck" probably soon will be back in a penitentiary. Blow long he will remain is a question. "Ma" Ferguson is not the only governor who has failed to exercise due care mextending leniency to convicts. The practice is one far the 18th amendment will be completed in 1933.—Jouett Shouse, president of orevalent among officials generally clothed with paring powers. Until this condition is changed, crime will to Courish in the United States.

Cupid Knows No Rules

By BRUCE CATTON

In reporting an attempted middle western hold-up the other day, the newspapers incidentally cost a revealing sidelight on the ways of Cupid

It all happened when three men tried to rob a Cincinnati restaurant. An 18-year-old waitress grabbed a pistol, killed one robber and routed the other two; and the sidelight on Cupid's activities came when it was revealed that | the this girl had been a sure-enough "war-baby." Her father was a German soldier and her mother a Belgian girl, and they were married near Antwerp

Now 1914 was not a time when Germans and Belgians were getting on well together. That matchless host in field gray was pouring across the Belgian plain like an irresistible flood, seemingly proving that might is the Belgian sovereignty had almost vanished. Cities and towns were ruled by German officers. Civilians had been executed by firing squads. Thoueands of people had fled from their homes, arising that stream of "atrocity" literature which was to help so greatly in creating a war spirit in England and America.

In the history books, that scene is painted in solid blacks. But apparently to some of the people on the spot, it wasn't that way at all. Apparently there were young German soldiers to whom the Belgian girls looked like desirable companions, and not like the outcast daughters of bitter enemies; and there were Belgian girls who could find among the conquerors handsome and glamorous boys who could make first-rate husbands.

We never heard much about those romances. But we might have known they were taking place. They are as old as war. Even when Mars is running the whole show, Cupid is bound to be busy on the sidelines.

Invasions are great tragedies, and the thudding of siege guns drowns out many cries of anguish; but always there are soldiers and girls who make their own arrangements about such things. Young love can leap boundaries of hatred, conquest and war. It was so when Alexander marched into Asia, and it is so today.

How About Everything

By E. W. HOWE

Anyone who reads what I write will have to stand a good deal of repetition, so I ask indulgence for saying again old maxims have significance as representing the best wisdom there is. Another virtue in maxims is they are always well and simply written.

A very old one tells of the disposition of a moth to hover around a candle, and get its wings singed There was once a man named Henry Holt whi had high intellectual equipment, and as much education as the universities, and long association with the best people, could supply. He was a book publisher, with such rare critical taste that his firm was outstanding. He owned and edited a quarterly magazine so excellent have preserved nearly every issue as an example of perhaps the best average writing ever displayed in magazine. He wrote a good many o the articles himself, and ranked as one of the best American writers. But in every issue of Unpopula Review there was an article (usually by Mr. Holt himself) about spiritualsm. This hovering about a dangerous flame finally resulted in the failure of the best printed and edited magazine in our long list, and bad scars on the reputation of the bril-

In the use of ink, pen, type, here was a master comparable to Napoleon Bonaparte in the use of guns, powder, soldiers, but Henry Holt could no more keep from hovering around the flame of his most dangerous candle than Napoleon Bonaparte could keep away from Moscow in the early winter of 1812.

A long time ago a New York man called on me, and requested that I introduce him to William Jennings Bryan. A few minutes after the men met, the New Yorker said something that infuriated Mr. Bryan, and he displayed a rage I did not know was in him. The encounter took place in the Bryan home in Miami, Florida Before I was out of bed next morning, Mr. Bryan telephoned, apologized for so completely losing his temper. His explanation was that all New York men infuriated him, they so generally believed themselves superior to others, because of their residence in the big town, I understand that the depressio has greatly chastened New Yorkers; travelers inform me they now display considerable respect for men from other sections,

I once published a war story on authority of a common soldier of 1862. At the time I wrote the former private had become a bank president, and an exceptionally in-telligent and reliable man. The general in command denied the authenticity of the incident outlined by the witnessed it with his own eyes, heard with his own ears the conversation reported, and in person participated in the charge described. Was not the evidence of this witness worthy of consideration? . . . In describing a ported that a river left its hed retreating soldiers. Had a hundred reiable common men participating in the same action declared no marvel occurred. I believe the testimony of the majority should been considered with that of the leader who wrote a book.

After you become old (as I am) you will find one of your heaviest burdens is being regulated too much lations, but am regulated daily and hourly when I have not offended, and regulation is not necessary, 1 try to meet the natural duties of patience, but am heavily burdened by regulators self-appointed and who should, in any fair consideration of fairness and common sense, let me more quietly pursue my natural tasks.

United States there are millions of men I admire more than any Spartan. In cultivating good habits, the Spartans made too much of bravery as exhibited in fighting. The Pennsylvania Dutch, and other citizens successful above the average, are not fanatical about any one thing, but try for a reasonable average in all good habits.

Wise men have fooled me so frequently in the past I have grown suspicious of them. Still, I try not to carry suspicion so far as to a warning of value when offered free, as occasionally happens. I have great respect for old maxims. One was written long ago about a shepherd, who, being employed to guard sheep, often cried "wolf" when there was no wolf. The master was thus lulled into such carelessness that when a wolf finally appeared, he gave no attention to warning he had paid to get early news of. It may be conceit of mine, but

I believe I can usually tell when a warning of wolves actually means Still, I have lost some sheep that

The Letter Killeth; The Spirit Is Life

Is morality a matter of education or a matter of understanding? Can you get morality out of a book, or, if not, where can you get it? Does education improve a nation's morals?

Education unquestionably opens the way for moral advancement because education teaches men to think. The man who takes the time and the trouble to study life must unquestionably, unless he is some sort of a fool, see from the experiences of the world that adherence to a high moral code of living brings the richest returns in life. By this we do not mean to limit the scope of the term to that of chastity. Chastity, like the rest of the decencies, is included in morality.

There are men who are much harmed by education. The more they learn to use their minds, the more dangerous they are to themselves and others. There is the type of man who has an incomplete mind; he is half fool and half knave. He is sometimes very clever in his knavishness. To him crookedness is justificable. Because of that fact, he is half fool. Any man who has been taught to use his mind, who actually has a knowledge of life, yet who be-"matter how smart he may appear.

half crook, the more dangerous you make him, the more you equip him to prey on his fellows. Frequently you will find the half fool and the half crook one of the most active members of the church. Often he is affable, ingratiat. Belgian plain like an irresistible flood, seemingly proving that might is the ing, plausible. He is a convincing talker. He can explain only right. impressively, even if superficially, the principles of religion. He can elucidate at length on the fact that God is Yet that type of man can be without any sense of moral responsibility; he is the more dangerous because he is likely to deceive persons with whom he comes in contact. Wearing the cloak of heaven, he is one of the most valued agents of the devil, for his identity is concealed.

The sanctimonious crook probably has many and varied reasons for assuming a cloak of religion. Merely the fact that he is educated does not help him to overcome an unmoral propensity. Rather, it has taught him to use his mental endowments for his selfish advantage. He may be a church member because he is an habitual "joiner"; he may appreciate the air of respectability that his church connection gives him; he may realize that to be outwardly religious is "good business."

Anyhow mere education on the subject of good behavior does not necessarily produce good behavior; which is another way of saying that the letter of the law isn't worth a hoot without the spirit. And that's the essence of the whole matter. If the spirit does not enter into a man then he won't do. No matter what else enters into himno matter what knowledge—he is merely an intellectual animal; and the more he knows the worse off he is and the worse off those with whom he comes in contact.

Education is dangerous for some sorts of persons, notably the half crook, half fool kind, the kind created with a screw missing, the moral screw, the spiritual screw, the screw that completes the contact with the Infinite. Sometimes a man with such a screw lacking can acquire such an accessory. It has been done, but it cannot be done through mere intellectual knowledge. It comes from something deeper, more profound than is afforded in natural sources.

Education makes a man think, but if it fails to make him think right, then heaven help him and us!

WHY CRIME GROWS

Capture the other day in Iowa of the bandit "Buck' Barrow, who with his brother had spread terror through the Middle West, brings forcefully to mind the softheartedeness of officials in dealing with criminals.

Both of the Barrows had served prison terms, and "Buck" only last year was pardoned by Governor "Ma" Ferguson of Texas. Crimes charged against the two since the release of "Buck" include robbery, kidnaping and murder. The pair armed themselves with weapons obtained from a national guard armory in Oklahoma. They never nesitated to shoot it out when cornered by officers or resisted by their intended victims.

"Buck" probably soon will be back in a penitentiary. How long he will remain is a question. "Ma" Ferguson is not the only governor who has failed to exercise due care extending leniency to convicts. The practice is one far prevalent among officials generally clothed with parting powers. Until this condition is changed, crime will time to flour sh in the United States.

Cupid Knows No Rules

By BRUCE CATTON

In reporting an attempted middle western hold-up the other day, the ewspapers incidentally cast a revealing sidelight on the ways of Cupid play considerable respect for men

It all happened when three men tried to rob a Cincinnati restaurant. An 18-year-old waitress grabbed a pistol, killed one robber and routed the other lieves that crookedness is justificable is utterly foolish, no two; and the sidelight on Cupid's activities came when it was revealed that this girl had been a sure-enough "war-baby." Her father was a German The more you educate the man who is half fool and soldier and her mother a Belgian girl, and they were married near Antwerp

> The age-old tragedy of invasion was being re-enacted, and out of it was arising that stream of "atrocity" literature which was to help so greatly in creating a war spirit in England and America.

In the history books, that scene is painted in solid blacks. But apparently marvel occurred, I believe the testio some of the people on the spot, it wasn't that way at all. Apparently mony of the majority should have there were young German soldiers to whom the Belgian girls looked like desirable companions, and not like the outcast daughters of bitter enemies; and there were Belgian girls who could find among the conquerors handsome and glamorous boys who could make first-rate husbands.

We never heard much about those romances. But we might have known they were taking place. They are as old as war. Even when Mars is running the whole show, Cupid is bound to be busy on the sidelines.

Invasions are great tragedies, and the thudding of siege guns drowns out many cries of anguish; but always there are soldiers and girls who make their own arrangements about such things. How About Everything

By E. W. HOWE

Anyone who reads what I write will have to stand a good deal of repetition, so I ask indulgence for aying again old maxims have significance as representing the best wisdom there is. Another virtue in maxims is they are always well and simply written.

A very old one tells of the disposition of a moth to hover around andle, and get its wings singed There was once a man named Henry Holt whi had high intellectual equipment, and as much education as the universities, and long association with the best people, could supply. He was a book publisher, with such rare critical taste that his firm was outstanding. He owned and edited a quarterly magazine so excellent I have preserved nearly every issue as an example of perhaps the best average writing ever displayed in a magazine. He wrote a good many of the articles himself, and ranked as one of the best American writers.

But in every issue of Unpopular Review there was an article (usually by Mr. Holt himself) about spiritualism. This hovering about a danger ous flame finally resulted in the failure of the best printed and edited magazine in our long list, and bad scars on the reputation of the brilliant editor.

In the use of ink, pen, type, here was a master comparable to Napoleon Bonaparte in the use of guns powder, soldiers, but Henry Holt could no more keep from hovering around the flame of his most dangerous candle than Napoleon Bonaparte could keep away from Moscow in the early winter of 1812.

A long time ago a New York man called on me, and requested that I introduce him to William Jennings Bryan. A few minutes after the men met, the New Yorker said something that infuriated Mr. Bryan, and he displayed a rage I did not know was in him. The encounter took place in the Bryan home in Miami, Florida, Before I was out of bed next morning, Mr. Bryan telephoned, and apologized for so completely losing his temper. His explanation was that all New York men infuriated him, they so generally believed themselves superior to others, because of their residence in the big town. I understand that the depression has greatly chastened New Yorkers;

I once published a war story on of 1862. At the time I wrote the private had become a bank president, and an exceptionally in-telligent and reliable man. The general in command denied the authenticity of the incident outlined by the private, who, in his defense, said he witnessed it with his own eyes, heard with his own ears the conversation reported, and in person participated in the charge described. Was not the evidence of this witness worthy of famous ancient battle, a leader reported that a river left its bed, and

The master was thus when a wolf finally appeared, he gave no attention to warning he had paid to get early news of. It may be conceit of mine, but

AS SENATE RACKETEERING COMMITTEE OPENED PROBE

A federal crime bureau to coordinate efforts of local authorities in combatting racketeering was suggested to the senate sub-committee on racketeering when, as shown here, it met for its first regional hearing in New York. Among the 50 noted criminologists and police executives in attendance were (1) New York's Police Commissioner James S. Bolan; (2) Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, chairman of the committee; (3) Joseph B. Keenan of Cleveland, special assistant to the attorney general; (4) Former New York Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, and (5) Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley, recently assigned by President Roosevelt to advise on the administration's anti-racket campaign.

ROCKEFELLER IS HEAVILY GUARDED

Son of John D., Jr., Dines With Bodyguard Near at Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Texsa, Aug. 19.-(AP -Winthrop Rockefeller, scion wealth, dined with a Yale classmate here last night while an armed body. guard remained nearby.

The guard had accompanied the 21year-old son of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to Fort Worth from Houston, Texas, where Rockefeller had spent three weeks studying the oil industry. He was with young Rockefeller when he departed at midnight by airplane to return to his New York home And in making the trip from the port to the home of his friend, W. H. Slay, Jr., and returning to the airport, two federal agents, with pistols and a sub-machine gun, augmented the bodyguard. The federal men also remained on guard outside the home during dinner.

Young Rockefeller refused to an swer any questions relative to the presence of the guards and smiled when asked whether he feared kid-"They've got them all locked up

BARGAIN DIZZY?

The windows and shelves of many stores are filled with unfamiliar packages bearing 'bargain' prices that are temptingly low. Clerks frequently urge you to try something 'just as good' as the dependable brands you know and ask for.

But it takes more than a low price to make a bargain and more than a clerk's promise to give you quality!

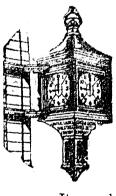

The safe bargains to buy now are products made by manufacturers who have reputations to uphold. Their's are the brands you know---either of your own experience or by their advertising.

Remember this when you shop: 'Just as good' brands actually must be made cheaper to sell for such a cheap price. All too frequently the only reason they are urged upon you is because they pay the maker and the dealer more profit than products which are better known and of better quality.

Think of these things, look at the name as well as the price, when you buy. Ask for what you want. Insist on getting what you ask for. Then you will be sure of full value for every penny you spend.

The safest way to be sure is to read carefully the advertisements --- of your local merchants and of the nationally known products as they appear, daily, in the columns of both. . .

The more money the nation's employes have, the more new things they can buy. The more they buy, the more the manufacturers will have to make and the farmers have to grow. More men will be required in the mills—the mines, in the stores and on the farms. The worker is asked to accept a shorter working week to give some neighbor a chance to earn his living. Many Delightful Affairs Given for Miss Manderson During the Past Few Days

Miss Bee Manderson of Tuscaloosa, Rachel Haynes, Miss Dorothy Calvert, Alabama, who has been the charming Miss Maida McClendon, Miss Hazel guest of Miss Gertrude Feazel during the nast week, has been the recipient of a number of delightful social courtesies during her stay in our Friday afternoon Miss Sue Kilgore and Miss Mamie Ola Heard entertained with a beautifully planned bridge affair at the home of Miss Heard in West Monroe. Summer flowers were used in artistic profusion, accenting the cleverly contrived color theme of yellow and green.

Miss Manderson was presented with a beautiful pair of chiffon hose

Mitchell, Miss Lallage Feazel and Miss Gertrude Feazel. Friday night Miss Manderson was the guest of honor on a delightful boat ride on "Madame Queen," cruising up the Ouachita river.

During the evening the guests enjoyed dancing and swimming in the refreshing waters of the Quachita. An appetizing picnic supper was served with watermelon to the following guests: Miss Bee Manderson, Charles Cason, Miss Gertrude Feazel, Bert Hamilton, Miss Mamie Heard, Raymond Spence, Miss Lallage Feazfor high score and a delicious salad el, Robert Calvert, Miss Sue Kilgore

COOPER, ROBSON TIE FOR SECOND 8 STROKES BACK

Bobby Alston, Ottawa Hope, Blows Up on Last Rounds

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 19.-(AP)-Joe Kirkwood, the Australian trick shot star ripped through the last two rounds of the Canadian open in sub par golf today to score one of the most decisive triumphs in the history of the competition no Canadian has been able to win the the past 14 years. Kirkwood's only other major title was the north-south open championship, one of the oldest titles in America, which he won last year, Kirkwood shot a 70 in the third round of the 72-hole medal play this morning, then topped off his first drive to the heights with a 69 that equalled Horton Smith's record for the course and gave him a total of 282 strokes, eight better than Harry Cooper, of Chicago, defending champion, and Lex Robson, of Toronto, who tied for second place. Behind them came a string of in vading stars. Ralph Guldahl, long hitting St. Louis professional, who was runner up to Johnny Goodman, in the American open, finished in fourth place with 291, a stroke better than Leo Diegel, of Agua Caliente four-time Canadian open champion from Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Al Houghton, Bethesda, Md., pro, for fifth place with totals of 292.

Gene Sarazen, recent winner of the American P. G. A. title and a favorite to win the championship, slumped in his final two rounds and finished in eighth place with 293 strokes. A stroke hind him came 24-year-old Bobby Alston, Ottawa professional and Canada's chief hope after putting together two rounds of 71, a total of four strokes under par, to lead the field at the end of the first 36 holes.

Alston blew up today with a 75 and 77 for a 72-hole total of 294 that left him in a tie for ninth place with Only Two Rivals Able to English Girl Will Play Horton Smith, of Chicago. The only other Canadian golfer to edge into the first 11 was Willie Lamb, recently crowned Canadian professional champion, who wound up with 295. Kirkwood's play was superb today

Wave's Kicking and Passing Game to Be As Good As In Past

By Horace Renegar NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 19.—(Spe-cial)—Tulane's kicking and passing game, a dominant factor in both offense and defense for the past four years, bids fair to keep the gridiron opposition wary this fall.

The Green Wave has long been blessed with several handy punters, quick kick artists and aerial target nen. The crop is again plentiful.

"Little Monk" Simons established himself as a remarkable punting prospect last year in his role of first sub for all-American Don Zimmer-man. In fact, after Monk got into the season, he was reeling off 60 yard thrusts often. He also passes the ball well, both on short and long ones. Francis (Pete) Menge also established himself last season as a passer to be heard from. This dynamic ball carrier was picking out pass receivers at 40 yards with remarkable accuracy in the last two Wave games last year. He also kicked consistently enough to be dependable.

"Little Preacher" Roberts, is already well known as a passer and kicker who alternated with Zimmerman last season to advantage. John-ny McDaniel kicks well and chunks the ball. Farrell Thomas kicks and passes while Lefty Brownson comes in the same category.

Bucky Bryan and Stanley Lodrigues

excellent triple threat prospects.

Both looked like standouts a year ago as they took regular turns against the varsity and in first year compethe varsity and in first year competition. Dick Page, reserve of last ple threat star, "Frenchy" Dominyear, also kicks well enough to han- gue to lead them. A half dozen other backfield pros-pects, including Howard Rau, Mack Burke, and Jimmy Henderson, also can either pass or kick well enough to keep the opposition guessing.

The Tulane system has long been built around versatility in this department as much as anything else. Like his predecessors, Clark Shaughnessy and Bernie Bierman, Ted Cox boxing champion of north Louisiana, and his chief assistant, Lester Lau- and Leroy Francis. 139. classy lightand Leroy Francis, 139, classy lighttenschlaeger, believe that to make an offense and defense more potent, the opposing teams should never know what to expect from a certain quar-

ing punter and passer never has the opportunity to monopolize the field. While Cox has such potential dynamite in his backfield, he is faced with the task of developing pass receivers to take care of their end. Jerry Dalrymple, Lefty Haynes and Jack Holland were just as capable in that end as the passers were.

For that reason, even the outstand-

NEW SERVICE AT LUTHER AND REED

Modern Local Garage Installs Bear Wheel Aligning Machine

in the United States today there ere over 26,000,000 automobiles traveling on our city streets, state highways and country roads. In fact, the automobile is daily assuming a more important part in our business and social life. Manufacturers of automobiles are giving the public what it wants in snappier bodies, higher speeds and many refinements in design and construction A great force of men in the form of oil stations and garages is necessary to offer adequate service to this amazing number of autos in active service. And in keeping with the service required on these cars comes new tools with which to keep them in repair and at highest running efficiency.

Newest among such equipment are wheel aligning, axle straightening tools. This equipment is for the purpose of restoring cars that shimmy, wander, steer hard and wear out tires excessively back to perfect alignment. For such annoying and dangerous conditions are due to twisted axles, wheels out of line, bent frames and unbalanced wheels. The work of restoring out-of-line cars back to manufacturers' original specifications is performed by experts who with the use of scientific gauges and hydraulic presses, do the job quickly and accurately. Considering the number of cars on the streets and highways today, it is essential that they be in roadworthy condition in order to assure the highest degree of safety possible to all concerned.

The Luther and Reed garage, South Grand and Wood streets, has just installed such equipment, which greatly broadens their service to automobile owners. This is the Bear system of wheel aligning and Monroe motorists are urged to call at Luther and Reed and receive a check-up of the front end mechanics of their automobiles. a limited time, this service is

SUMMER RATE IS STILL IN EFFECT

Families May Take Advantage of Attractive Offer at Alvis

Despite the fact that half of the hot summer months have passed, Monroe home owners who wish to spend the remaining months in comfort may still take advantage of the Alvis hotel's summer guest plan.

The Alvis hotel is making attractive summer rates to permanent guests and a number of local families have moved to the Alvis for the summer. E. C. Gibson, manager of the Alvis, announced the summer rate plan a month ago and many inquiries have been received concerning the plan. Mr. Gibson will be pleased to furnish complete information about accommodations at the Alvis and the attractive rate offered.

Local families have found it both economical and pleasant to close their homes during the summer and live at the Alvis. Every room has a ceiling fan and there is always a cool breeze through the upper stories of the hotel

Machado's Grandchildren Given Medical Attention

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—(A)— Two grandchildren of deposed President Gerardo Machado of Cuba, were because of the heat.

Dr. H. B. Kobler of Media, Pa., was where II members of the Machado family are staying to treat Marie Elvira Obregon and Nenita Grau, 12.

daughter of former Senator Baldomen Grau. Because of the illness of the chilcancelled. Meanwhile additional advices from Machado, exiled in Nassau, the Ba-0.9 Fall hamas, are said to have increased the Electrical Contractors' 0.6 Fall family's determination to establish a 0.3 Fall home in the vicinity of Philadelphia

Cooperation Is Given in Preparing New Directory

Excellent cooperation is being accorded in the preparation of the 1933 city directory of Monroe and West Monroe, C. B. Page, manager of the Interstate Directory company, said Saturday. He stated that the book will be of special value as it will be the first volume of the kind issued here in three years.

The book will be of similar size and style to that of 1930 and will contain besides the listing of names of residents of Monroe and West Monroe, street and telephone directories, a numerical phone directory and classified business directory.

The work of making the canvass will be completed, according to the present schedule, on or about Octo ber 1. It is hoped to have the book for distribution by Novem-to seek asylum in America in 1654, when the Dutch West India company Mr. Page stated that the business outlook for Monroe seems good and that indications are that the populamade provision for them to journey to what was then the New Nethertion will show a healthy increase over that in 1930.

TEN PERSONS DIE IN AUTO MISHAPS

Fourteen Others Are Injured in Accidents in Indiana

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 19.-(A) Death rode the highways in northern Indiana early today and the lives of ten persons were snuffed out near South Bend and Ft. Wayne. Fourteen others were injured, most of them seriously.

Shortly before dawn an improvised bus, carrying thirty passengers returning to their homes in Elkhart county after a visit to the Chicago fair, was sideswiped by a heavilyladen van six miles west of here. Tearing away the left side of the farm truck, the van dealt death to six and injuries to a dozen others. The van sped on, its driver refusing aid to the victims strewn along the

A few hours later, another party of six persons from Toledo, Ohio, drove onto a Wabash railroad crossing in Fort Wayne in front of a passenger train. Four were killed and two others seriously hurt. They were en route to Kentucky on a vacation

The dead in the South Bend accident were: Mrs. Walter Berkey, 23; Walter Berkey, 26; Mrs. Mary Huntsberger Wisler, 26, Wayne Pippenger, 16; Gerlitner, 16, all of Wakarusha, Elkhart

James R. Gray, 39, of Toledo, Ohio; age about 38, of Princeton, Ky. The injured are Izetta Gray, 12, daughte of Mr. and Mrs, Gray, fractured skull and internal injuries, and Mabel Marie Gray, 4, another daughter.

Coroner B. J. Bolka of South Bend placed the blame in the accident here on the driver of the overland van. The load of world's fair visitors had left Chicago shortly before midnight. The farm truck had wooden benches on either side for the occupants. The passengers dozed as the wehicle proceeded homeward. Without warning the van flashed into view and bore down on the truck. The only clue was a strip of heavy tire which was ripped from one of the wheels. Authorities in cities from South Bend to Chicago were notified to watch for the damaged van.

One Man Is Killed and Another Wounded at Docks in Havana

HAVANA, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The strike of dock workers in Havana harbor, stubbornly resisting mediation efforts, suddenly broke into violence today and added another grave problem to those already facing Carlos Manuel De Cespedes' provisional government.

Strikers insisting that shipping agencies must recognize their unions, as Cuban law provides, attacked strike-breakers on the United Fruit company's docks, killed Angel Zo-moorza and severely wounded his presumably by strikers. Spokesmen for the stevedores, longshoremen and other affiliated unions have charged the United Fruit company and Doniphan are the only ones standing in the way of settlement of the strike, claiming all other shipping companies are willing to recognize the unions.

A government commission consisting of the secretaries of agriculture interior and treasury today continued its efforts to bring the strike to a conclusion. Treasury Secretary Martinez Saenz said the government would enforce the labor law to compel recognition of the unions and end the strike unless arbitration proved successful Destruction of the home of former Lieutenant Lino Lomo of the police at Cienfuegos today caused revolu tionary leaders to express fear that hatred of former Presdent Machado was being made the excuse for personal acts of revenge. The ABC society, spearhead of the revolution, protested against the mob's action in Cienfuegos.

In Santiago, where communistic agitation against the De Cespedes government has worried local authorities, the situation was reported quiet. Spokesmen are largely attended meetings have urged recognition of the communist party and complete equality for whites and negroes. Rumors that negroes in Oriente and Camaguey provinces were up in arms proved false.

TO AMERICA, ARRIVED AT THE VIRGINIA CAPES AFTER A VOYAGE OF MORE THAN FOUR MONTHS....

CAPTAIN JOHN SMITH WAS STILL A PRISONER IN THE BRIG, HELD ON THE CHARGE OF MUTINY TRUMPED UP BY HIS AMBITIOUS RIVAL, EDWARD WINGFIELD....

OW THE SEALED PACKET WAS OPENED, REVEALING THE NAMES OF THE SEVEN COLONISTS WHO WERE TO FORM THE GOVERNING COUNCIL. BOTH SMITH AND WINGFIELD HAD BEEN APPOINTED.

SAILING THIRTY-TWO MILES, UP
THE JAMES RIVER, THE COLONISTS
CAME TO A LITTLE PENINSULA, WHICH THEY SELECTED ASTHE SITE OF A SETTLEMENT, JAMESTOWN.

SMITH WAS TRIED ON THE MUTINY CHARGE. HE WAS SET FREE, BUT BARRED FROM SERVING ON THE COUNCIL OF SEVEN, WHICH WAS NOW HEADED BY WINGFIELD.

WHILE THE REST OF THE SETTLERS ERECTED A RUDE FORT AND LOG CABINS, SMITH AND CAPTAIN NEWPORT MADE AN EXPLORING TRIP FAR UP THE JAMES.

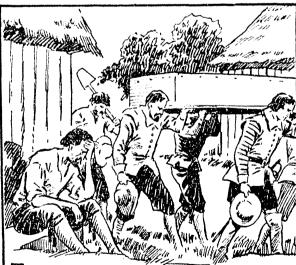

ON HIS RETURN TO JAMESTOWN
SMITH FOUND THINGS GOING BADLY

MONROE, LOUISIANA, SUNDAY, AUGUST 20, 1933

TOBIAS THE TERRIBLE Mindy's restaurant on Broadway partaking heartily of some Hunrian goulash which comes very in Mindy's, what with the being personally somewhat ngarian himself, when in pops

I do not pay any attention to he guy at first as I am busy sking over the entries for the ext day at Laurel, but I hear iim tell the waiter to bring him iome goulash, too. By and by I hear the guy making a strange noise and I look at him over my paper and see that he is crying. in fact, large tears are rolling lown his face into his goulash nd going plop-plop as they fall.

kruy who is a stranger to me deits down at my table.

Now it is by no means usual the see guys crying in Mindy's restaurant, though thousands of guys come in there who often feel like crying, especially after a tough day at the track, so I commence weighing the guy up with great interest. I can see he is a very little guy, maybe a shade over five feet high and weighing maybe as much as a dime's worth of liver, and he has a mustache like a mosquito's whiskers across his upper lip, and pale blond hair and a very sad look in his eyes.

Furthermore, he is a young guy and he is wearing a suit of clothes the color of French mustard, with slanting pockets, and I notice when he comes in that he has a brown hat sitting jackdeuce on his noggin. Anybody can see that this guy does not belong in these parts, with such s sad look and especially with

NATURALLY, I figure his cryis some kind of dodge. In fact, I figure that maybe the guy is trying to cry me out of the price of his Hungarian goulash, although if he takes the trouble to ask anybody before he comes in, he will learn that he may just as well try to cry Al Smith out of the Empire State Build-

But the guy does not say anything whatever to me but just goes on shedding tears into his goulash, and finally I get very curious about this proposition. and I speak to him as follows:

"Listen, pally," I say, "if you are crying about the goulash, you better dry your tears before the chef sees you, because," I say, "the chef is very sensitive about his goulash, and may take your tears as criticism."

"The goulash seems all right," the guy says in a voice that is just about his size. "Anyway, I am not crying about the goulash. I am crying about my sad life. Friend," the guy says, "are you ever in love?"

Well, of course at this crack I know what is eating the guy. If I have all the tears that are shed on Broadway by guys in love, I will have enough salt water to start an opposition ocean to the Atlantic and Pacific, with enough left over to run the Great Salt Lake out of business. But I wish to say I never shed any of these tears personally, because I am never in love, and furthermore, barring a bad break, I never expect to be in love, for the way I look at it love is stric'ly the old phedinkus, and I te. the little guy as much.

"Well," he says, "you will not speak so harshly of love if you are acquainted with Miss Deborah Weems."

With this he starts crying more than somewhat, and his grief is such that it touches my heart and I have half a notion to start crying with him as I am now convinced that the guy is leveling with his tears.

Finally the guy slacks up a little in his crying, and begins esting his goulash, and by and by he seems more cheerful, but then it is well known to one and Il that a fair dose of Mindy's coulash will cheer up anybody o matter how sad they feel. Pretty soon the guy starts talking to me, and I make out that is name is Tobias Tweeney, and hat he comes from a spot over n Bucks County, Pennsylvania, by the name of Erasmus, or some

FURTHERMORE, I judge that this Erasmus is not such a large city, but very pleasant, and that Tobias Tweeney is born and raised there and is never much of any place else in his life, although he is now rising twenty-

Well, it seems that Tobias

Tweeney has a fine position in a shoe store selling shoes and is going all right when he happens to fall in love with a doll by the name of Miss Deborah Weems, whose papa owns a gas station in Erasmus and is a very prominent citizen. I judge from what Tobias tells me that Miss Deborah Weems tosses him around quite some, which proves to me that dolls in small towns are just the same as they are on Broadway.

"She is beautiful," Tobias Tweeney says, speaking of Miss Deborah Weems. "I do not think I can live without her. But," he says, "Miss Deborah Weems will have no part of me because she is daffy over desperate characters of the underworld such as she sees in the movies at the Model Theater in Erasmus.

"She wishes to know," Tobias Tweeney says, "why I cannot be big gunman and go around plugging people here and there and talking up to politicians and policemen, and maybe looking picturesque and romantic like Edward G. Robinson or James Cagney or even Georgie Raft. But, of course," Tobias says, "I am not the type for such a char-acter. Anyway," he says, "Constable Wendell will never permit me to be such a character in Erasmus.

"So Miss Deborah Weems says I have no more nerve than a catfish," Tobias says, "and she goes around with a guy by the name of Joe Trivett, who runs the Smoke Shop, and bootlegs ginger extract to the boys in his back room and claims Al Capone once says 'Hello' to him, although," Tobias says, "personally, I think Joe Trivett is nothing but a great

At this, Tobias Tweeney starts crying again, and I feel very sorry for him indeed because I can see he is a friendly, harmless little fellow, and by no means accustomed to being tossed around by a doll, and a guy who is not accustomed to being tossed around by a doll always finds it most painful the first time.

"Why," I say, very indignant, "this Miss Deborah Weems talks great foolishness because big gunmen always wind up nowadays with the score 9 to 0 against them, even in the movies. In fact," I say, "if they do not wind up this way in the movies, the censors will not permit the movies to be displayed. Why do you not hit this guy Trivett a punch in the snoot," I say, "and tell him to go on about his busi-

WELL," Tobias says, "the reason I do not hit him a punch in the snoot is because he has the idea of punching snoots first, and whose snoot does he punch but mine. Further-more," Tobias says, "he makes my snoot bleed with the punch, and he says he will do it again if I keep hanging around Miss Deborah Weems. And," Tobias says, "it is mainly because I do not return the punch, being too busy stopping my snoot from bleeding, that hiss Debor. Weems renounces me forever.

"She says she can never stand for a guy who has no more nerve than me," Tobias says, "but." he says, "I ask you if I am to blame if my mother is frightened by a rabbit a few weeks befor born, and marks me for life?

"So I leave town," Tobias says. 'I take my savings of two hundred dollars out of the Erasmus bank, and I come here, figuring maybe I will meet up with some big gunmen and other desperate characters of the underworld, and get to know them, and then I can go back to Erasmus and make Joe Trivett look sick. By the way," he says, "do you know any desperate characters of the underworld?"

Well, of course I do not know any such characters, and if I do know them I am not going to speak about it, because the best a guy can get in this town if he goes around speaking of these matters is a nice kick in the pants. So I say no to Tobias weeney, and tell him I am more or less of a stranger myself, and then he wishes to know if I can show him a real speakeasy, such as he sees in the movies.

Naturally, I do not know of such a speakeasy, but then I get thinking about Good Time Charley's little Gingham shoppe over in Forty-seventh Street, and how Charley is not going so good the last time I am in there, and here is maybe a chance for me to steer a little trade his way, because, after all, guys with two yards in their pocket are by no means common nowadays.

So I take Tobias Tweeney around to Good Time Charley's, but the moment we get in there I am sorry we go, because who is present but a dozen parties from different parts of the city, and none of these parties are any bargain at any time. Some of these parties, such as Harry the Horse and Angie the Ox, are from Brooklyn, and three are from Harlem, including Little Mitzi and Germany Schwartz, and several are from the Bronx, because I recognize Joey Uptown. and Joey never goes around without a few intimate friends from his own neighborhood with

AFTERWARDS I learn that these parties are to a meeting on business matters at a spot near Good Time Charley's, and when they get through with their business they drop in to give Charley a little complimentary play, for Charley stands very good with one and all in this town. Anyway, they are sitting around a table when Tobias Tweeney and I arrive, and I give them all a big hello, and they hello me back, and ask me and my friend to sit down as it seems they are in a most hospitable frame of mind.

Naturally I sit down because it is never good policy to decline an invitation from parties such as these, and I motion Tobias to down, too, and I introduce Tobias all around, and we all have a couple of drinks, and then I explain to those present just who Tobias is, and how his ever-loving doll tosses him around, and how Joe Trivett punches him in the snoot.

Well, Tobias begins crying again, because no inexperienced guy can take a couple of drinks of Good Time Charley's liquor and not bust out crying, even if it is Charley's company liquor, and one and all are at once very sympathetic with Tobias, especially Little Mitzi, who is just tossed around himself more than somewhat by a doll. In fact, Little Mitzi starts crying with

"Why," Joey Uptown says, "I never hear of a greater outrage in my life, although," he says, "I can see there is some puppy in you at that, when you do not return this Trivett's punch. But even so," Joey says, "if I have time I will go back to this town you speak of with you and make the guy hard to catch. Furthermore," he says. will give this Miss Deborah Weems a piece of my mind."

Then I tell him how Tobias Tweeney comes to New York figuring he may meet up with some desperate characters of the un-derworld, and they hear this with great interest, and Angie the Ox speaks as follows:
"I wonder," Angle says. "If we can get in touch with any-body who knows such characters and arrange to have Mr. Tweeney meet them, although personally," Angie says, "I loathe and despise characters of this nature."

Well, while Angle is wondering this there comes a large knock at the front door, and it is such a knock as only the gendarmes can knock, and everybody at the table jumps up. Good Time Charley goes to the door and takes a quiet gander through his peephole and we hear a loud, coarse voice speaking as follows:

"Open up, Charley," the voice says. "We wish to look over your guests. Furthermore," the voice says, "tell them not to try the back door, because we are there, too.

"It is Lieutenant Harrigan and his squad," Charley says as he comes back to the table where we are all standing. "Someone must tip him off you are here. Well." Charley says, "those who have rods to shed will shed them

At this, Joey Uptown steps up to Tobias Tweeney and hands him a large Betsy and says to "Put this away on you somewhere," Joey says, "and then sit down and be quiet. These coppers are not apt to bother with you." Joey says, "if you sit still and mind your own business, but," Joey says, "it will be very tough on any of us they find with a rod, especially any of us who owe the state any time, and, Joey says, "I seem to remember I owe some."

Now of course what Joey says is very true, because he is only walking around and about on parole, and some of the others present are walking around the same way, and it is a very serious matter for a guy who is walking around on parole to be with a John Roscoe in his pocket. So it is a very ticklish situation, and somewhat cmbarrassing.

WELL, Tobias Tweeney is somewhat dazed by his couple of drinks of Good Time Charey's liquor and the chances are he does not realize what is coming off, so he takes Joey's rod and puts it in his hip pocket. Then all of a sudden Harry the Horse and Angie the Ox and Little Mitzi and all the others step up to him and hand him their Roscoes, and Tobias Tweeney manages to stow the guns away on himself and sit down before Good Time Charley opens the door and in comes the gendarmes.

By this time Joey Uptown and all the others are scattered at different tables around the room, with no more than three at any one table, leaving Tobias Tweeney and me alone at the table where we are first Furthermore, everybody is looking very innocent indeed, and all hands seem somewhat surprised at the intrusion of the gendarmes, who are all young guys belonging to Harrigan's Broadway squad, and very rude.

I know Harrigan by sight, and I know most of his men and they know there is no more harm in me than there is in a two-yearold baby, so they pay no attention to me whatever, or to Tobias Tweeney, either, but go around making Joey Uptown, and Angie the Ox. and all the others stand up while the gendarmes fan them them, because these gendarmes are always laying for parties such as these hoping to catch them rodded up.

Naturally the gendarmes do not find any rods on anybody, higs Tweeney, and no gendarme is going to fan Tobias Tweeney looking for a rod after one gander at Tobias, especially at this particular moment, as Tobias is now half asleep from Good Time Charley's liquor, and has no interest whatever in anything that is going on. In fact, Tobias is nodding in his chair. Of course the gendarmes are greatly disgusted at not finding any rods, and Angie the Ox and Uptown are telling them that they are going to see their aldermen and find out if lawabiding citizens can be stood up and fanned for rods, and put in a very undignified position like this, but the gendarmes do not seem disturbed by these threats, and Lientenant Harrigan states as follows: 'Well," he says, "I guess maybe I get a bum steer, but," he says, "for two cents I will give all you wrong gees a good going-over just for luck."

Of course this is no way to speak to parties such as these, as they are all very prominent in their different parts of the city, but Lieutenant Harrigan is guy who seldom cares how he talks to anybody. In fact, Lieutenant Harrigan is a very tough

But he is just about to take his gendarmes out of the joint when Tobias Tweeney nods a little too far forward in his chair, and then all of a sudden topples over on the floor, and five large rods pop out of his pockets and go sliding every which way around the floor, and the next thing anybody knows there is Tweeney under arrest with all the gendarmes holding onto some part of him.

WELL, the next day the newspapers are plumb full of the capture of a guy they all call Twelve Gun Tweeney, and the papers say the police state that this is undoubtedly the toughest guy the world ever sees, because while they hear of two gun guys. and even three gun guys, they never before hear of a guy going around rodded up with twelve

The gendarmes say they can tell by the way he acts that Twolve Gun Tweeney is a mighty bloodthirsty guy, because he says nothing whatever but only glares at them with a steely glint in his eyes, although of course the reason Tobias stares at them is because he is still too dumounded to think of anyth

Naturally, I figure that when Tobias comes up for air he is a sure thing to spill the whole business, and all the parties who are in Good Time Charley's when he arrested figure the same way, and go into retirement for a But it seems that when Tobias finally realizes what time It is, he is getting so much attention that it swells him all up and he decides to keep on being Twelve Gun Tweeney as long as he can, which is a decision that is a very nice break for all parties conserned.

I sneak dar to Judge Ras-

cover's court to day Tobias is arraigned on a arge of violation of the Sulh |) law, which is a law against e ring rods, and the courtroon, a packed with citizens eager to see a character desperate enough to lug twelve rods, and among these citizens are many dolls, pulling and hauling for position, and some these dolls are by no means crows. Many photographers are hanging around to take pictures of Twelve Gun Tweeney as he is led in handcuffed to gendarmes on either side of him, and with other gendarmes in front and hehind him.

But one and all are greatly surprised and somewhat disappointed when they see what a ittle squirt Tobias is, and Judge Rascover looks down at him once, and then puts on his specs and takes another gander as if he does not believe what he sees in the first place. After looking at Tobias awhile through his specs, and shaking his head as if he is greatly puzzled, Judge Rascover speaks to Lieutenant Harrigan as follows:

"Do you mean to tell this court," Judge Rascover says, "that this half-portion here is the desperate Twelve Gun Twee-

WELL, Lieutenant Harrigan says there is no doubt whatever about it, and Judge Rascover wishes to know how Tobias carries all these rods, and whereabouts, so Lieutenant Harrigan collects twelve rods from the gendarmes around the courtroom, unloads these rods, and starts in putting the guns here and there on Tobias as near as he can remember where they are found on him in the first place, with Tobias giving him a little friendly assistance. of Tobias' coat, one in each hip pocket, one in the waistband of Tobias' pants, one in each side pocket of the pants, one up each of Tobias' sleeves, and one in the inside pocket of Tobias' coat. Then Lieutenant Harrigan states to the court that he is all finished, and that Tobias is rodded up in every respect as when they put the arm on him in Good Time Charley's joint, and Judge Rascover speaks to Tobias as fol-

'Step closer to the bench," Judge Rascover says. to see for myself just what kind of a villain you are.'

Well, Tobias takes a step forward, and over he goes on his snoot, so I see right away what it is makes him keel over in Good Time Charley's joint, not figuring in Charley's liquor. The little guy is just naturally top-heavy from the rods Now there is much confusion as he falls and a young doll who seems to be fatter than some what comes shoving through the crowd in the courtroom yelling and crying, and though the gendarmes try to stop her she gets to Tobias and kneels at his side, and speaks as follows:

"Toby, darling," she says, "it nobody but Deborah, who loves you dearly, and who always knows you will turn out to be the greatest gunman of them all. Look at me, Toby," she says, "and tell me you love me, too. We never realize what a hero you are until we get the New York papers in Erasmus last night and I hurry to you as quickly as possible. Kiss me, Toby," the fat young doll says, and Tobias raises up on one elbow and does same, and it makes a very pleasing scene, indeed, although the gendarmes try to pull them apart, having no patience whatever with such matters.

TOW Judge Rascover is watch-N ing all this business through his specs, and Judge Rascover is no sucker, but a pretty slick old codger for a judge, and he can see that there is something wrong somewhere about Tobias desperate as the gendarmes make him out, especially when he sees that Tobias cannot pack all these rods on a bet.

So when the gendarmes pick the fat young doll off of Tobias and take a few pounds of rods off of Tobias, too, so he is finally Lieutenant Harrigan puts two able to get back on his pins and journs court, and takes Tobias into his private room and has a talk with him, and the chances are Tobias tells him the truth, for the next thing anybody knows Tobias is walking away as free as the little birdies in the trees, except that he has the fat young doll clinging to him like a porous plaster, so maybe Topias is not so free, at that.

Well, this is about all there is to the story, except that there is afterwards plenty of heat between the parties who are present in Good Time Charley's joint when Tobias is collared because it seems that the meeting they all attend before going to Charlev's is supposed to be a peace meeting of some kind and nobody is supposed to carry any rods to this meeting just to prove their confidence in each other, so everybody is very indignant when it comes out that nabody has any confidence

NEVERCHEAR OF TODIES I Wee-

Well, it seems Tobias is all married up to Miss Deborah Weems, and is setting along first class, as it seems the town elects him constable, because it feels that a guy with such a desperate reputation as Tobias Tweeney's is bound to make wrongdoers keep away from Erasmus if he is an officer of the law, and To-bias' first official act is to chase

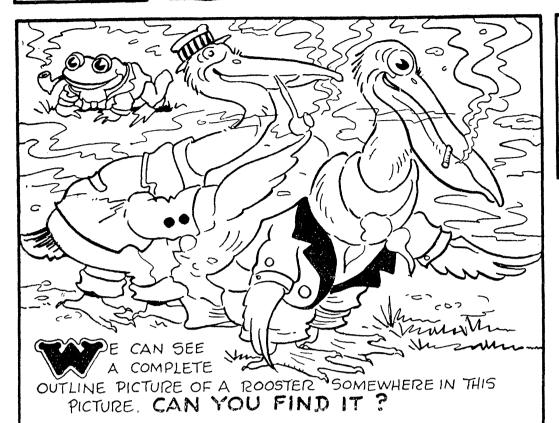

Joe Trivett out of town. But along Broadway, Tobias Tweeney will always be considered nothing but an ingrate for heaving Joey Uptown and Little Mitzi into the town sneezer and getting them fined fifty bobs apiece for carrying concealed weapons.
